CHILDREN in Herefordshire can learn angling skills and hook up with a new qualification.

More than 20 children will be involved in the project being held at Ullingswick pools and Burley Gate village hall.

Experienced tutors and coaches will work with the children aged over nine years during four weekends in March and April Worcester Angling Academy centre manager Mark Eacock is the brainchild behind the Herefordshire initiative.

"The project is designed to involve all those taking part, help them develop new skills and techniques, giving them ownership of this and future projects," he said.

"All candidates will be encouraged to work with their peers and people older than themselves, which will develop and enhance social skills."

Children from nine to 13 years old will work towards an accredited qualification, while those aged 14 and over will study the Sports Leaders UK Level 1 course.

The scheme will also train six new level 1 assistant coaches who will work towards volunteer coach status. The volunteers will study topics including, risk assessment, planning and session planning.

Each of the 10 sessions will start at 9am and run until 3pm.

Lunches, refreshments, fishing tackle, bait and course materials will be provided on each of the days. Free transport will be provided to children without transport. The pick up and drop off point will be Hereford Bus Station.
